LOU REICHERS

HARBOR GRACE, Nfd., May 13.—Lou Reichers took off from Harbor Grace in his monoplane Liberty at 6:04 a. m. E. S. T. today with Baldonnel Airdrome, Dublin, as his destination.

Westerly winds and fair weather favored Reichers' chances for a fast Atlantic crossing.

The stabilizer of the Liberty was damaged when Reichers landed 190 miles an hour. The flight from Newark was without incident except passage through dense fog between Halifax and the south coast of New Foundland.

Reichers had 410 gallons of gasoline and four gallons of lubricating oil aboard. He expected to make an average speed of about

PROBE TOSsing OF TEAR GAS BOMBS

COLUMBUS, O., May 13.—An investigation of the tossing of two tear gas bombs by national guardsmen into a crowd at Jewett, Minn. town near Cadiz last night, was being made today by Lieutenant Colonel H. C. Doellinger, Marysville, in charge of the troops there.

Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson announced.

Henderson is awaiting a report from Doellinger before determining what action, if any, will be taken. The bombs were thrown after a crowd gathered in front of a soda grill and directed abusive language at a group of twelve guardsmen, it was said.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE WILL TRAIL SLAYER

President Orders All Secret Agencies To Track Kidnapers

WASHINGTON, May 13.—President Hoover today issued orders to the secret service of the federal government to "make the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh baby a live and never-to-be-forgotten case."

The President, in a brief, terse statement ordered the federal government agencies never to relax "until those criminals are implacably brought to justice."

The president's statement said: "I have directed the law enforcement agencies and the several secret services of the federal government to make the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh baby a live and never-to-be-forgotten case, never to be relaxed until those criminals are implacably brought to justice."

"The federal government does not have police authority in such crimes but its agencies will be unceasingly alert to assist the New Jersey police in every possible way until this end has been accomplished."

Both President and Mrs. Hoover were deeply shocked at the tragic discovery of the Lindbergh baby's body.

They have followed the tragedy from its start March 1, and, it was recalled, the President was instrumental in placing federal agencies at the disposal of the New Jersey authorities at the outset.

The President's order throws into the case not only the department of justice but its various agencies, the prohibition bureau, the treasury secret service and the coast guard, all the army of U. S. Marshals and other government forces, but conceivably could even extend to the use of the army and navy intelligence services which extend to almost every corner of the earth.

SCHOOL BOARD CUTS TEACHER SALARIES HERE

Employs Staff With 5
To 10 Per Cent
Reduction

Sixty-six teachers in the Xenia public schools for the 1932-33 school year were elected Thursday night by the city board of education at salary reductions ranging from 5 per cent for the lowest paid class to 10 per cent for the highest paid instructors.

The teachers were again hired on a month-to-month basis and through an anticipated saving of $900 a month in salary contracts, the board hopes to operate the schools for a full nine-month term.

Teaching for nine months, board members explain the teachers actually will receive the same annual salary as before, though teaching an extra month. The salaries will be spread over nine months instead of eight, as was the case in the present curtailed term.

The school board, in slashing salaries, had in mind the advantage to the school children of completing the regular nine months' course of study without added expense.

Only one change was made in the personnel of the teaching force and there was no reduction in the number of teachers employed for the next school year. In reality, the teaching force is too small, it is announced, but in the interest of economy additional faculty members were not hired.

The school board also received bids for furnishing 600 tons of Pocahontas and 200 tons of lump coal for the schools next winter, and these were turned over to the clerk to be tabulated. Five firms submitted bids and the contract will be awarded soon at a recess board meeting.

SIX DEAD IN EXPLOSION AT FACTORY

Three Others Hurt As Blast Wrecks Paper
Plant

FRANKLIN, O., May 13.—Six men were dead today as the result of an explosion which wrecked the factory of the Cheney Pulp and Paper Co. here.

The dead:

James Young, 55, his son, Pressler Young, 20; Sam Thompson, 47; his son, Richard Thompson, 25; Finley Couch, 20, and Samuel Hawthorne, 49. All lived in Franklin.

Howard Cheney, owner of the mill, estimated property damage at $125,000.

Three other employees who were injured were reported recovering today at Mercy Hospital, Hamilton. They are George Carpenter, 42, fractured skull; Glenn Cook, 18, internal injuries, and Frank Gray, back injuries.

The explosion occurred in a rotary tank where rags were being cooked under steam pressure.

David Patrick, superintendent, was unable to offer any reason for the explosion.

The maximum steam pressure used is sixty pounds, Patrick said, but yesterday only forty were being used. There were two safety valves on the steam line, designed to open if the pressure reaches more than sixty pounds, he explained.

Patrick discounted the theory that other gases might have accumulated in the tank and been ignited by a spark.

The building was a mass of debris today. The heavy rotary tank was hurled seventy-five feet away and left a mass of twisted iron.

Harold Longworth, employee who was in the basement changing his clothes when the blast occurred, said he was knocked to the floor just as he started up the stairs.

"It seemed as though a big wind had hit me," he said. "Wreckage started falling all around me and I was saved from being buried only by the fact I was near a concrete post. I took my penknife and cut through a leather belt and some other rubbish and got out."

Another employee, Charles Howels, who was unhurt, was working inside a second rotary tank next to the one which exploded.

"The noise was ear-splitting," he related. "It seemed that the whole mill was falling in on top of the tank. The opening of the tank was covered with steel girders and rubbish. I called for help and in a few minutes I heard someone pulling and tearing away the stuff and I got out in a few minutes."

The three rotary tanks were on the second floor. Only one was in operation at the time.

CLAIMS SLAYERS GOT MONEY

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 13.—

Prosecutor Erwin S. Marshall, of Mercer County, today declared he had evidence convincing him that the men who took $50,000 ransom from Dr. John F. Condon (Jafsie) were the men who kidnaped and later killed Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

Marshall said the men who received the ransom money from Condon had provided proof to Lindbergh and Condon that they were the actual kidnapers and were in possession of the baby. This proof, Marshall revealed for the first time, was the sleeping garment the baby wore when he was stolen from his nursery.

MOTHER OF COLONEL LINDBERGH LEAVES

DETROIT, May 13.—Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh, mother of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, today boarded a train for New Jersey to join the bereaved Lindberghs.

After a brief stop at Cass Technical High School she drove on to the station.

Mrs. Lindbergh was wearing a heavy tan veil and walked nervously to and from the school building and into the station.

It was the first time she had failed to teach her regular classes during moments of stress in her family. While her son was flying to Paris she steadfastly stayed at her post and during the trying days following the kidnaping of her grandson she appeared regularly to teach her chemistry classes.

PRESIDENT OFFERS COMPROMISE PLAN TO END DEPRESSION

Would Use Finance Corporation To Aid
Unemployment

WASHINGTON, May 13.—President Hoover has advanced a gigantic compromise program to relieve unemployment and "speed up the economic machine." It would be financed by doubling the borrowing power of the reconstruction finance corporation to $3,000,000,000 (B). Mr. Hoover would have congress empower the corporation to assist states with direct unemployment relief to the extent of $250,000,000 or $300,000,000.

Billions would be made available to finance "income-producing and self-sustaining" construction enterprises by public or private bodies to create employment.

The program is similar to that advanced only two days ago by Senate Democratic Leader Robinson and supported by such eminent Democrats as Owen D. Young, Bernard Baruch and Alfred E. Smith.

Robinson proposed special federal bond issues of $2,300,000,000. President Hoover, viewing bond issues as a direct charge either upon the taxpayer or upon the public credit, proposes to accomplish the same objectives through the reconstruction corporation.

The corporation originally was given $500,000,000 to aid business, banks and agriculture. It was empowered to raise $1,500,000,000 more by issuing debentures. So far it has not issued any.

Democratic leaders comprising the party's policy and steering committees in congress discussed the

COLONEL AT SEA WHEN DISCOVERY MADE

Death May Have Taken Place Shortly After Kidnaping
March 1; Fractured Skull Was Fatal; Pitiful
Garments Help Identification of Skeleton

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 13.—Provided with clues furnished by two men who sought contacts with the kidnapers of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., police today were on new trails which they hoped would lead to the murderer of the child.

The wanton killing of the baby was revealed late yesterday when the child's body, skull crushed, was found on a hillside almost within sight of the home from which he was stolen March 1.

Questioning of Dr. James F. Condon, the mysterious "Jafsie" who paid a $50,000 ransom in his futile effort to obtain the baby, and John Hughes Curtis, a Norfolk negotiator, began at 4 a. m. and continued through the morning. Police announced valuable information had been obtained which was being "followed up."

All the forces of an enraged society were loosened on the trail of the kidnapers once the finding of the body removed all fears that a too all-encompassing investigation might result in harm to the child.

LINDBERGH AT SEA
Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was at sea in another of his heartbreaking efforts to establish direct contact with the supposed kidnapers when two lumber truckmen made their gruesome find in a clump of bushes near Rose Hill, less than five miles from the Lindbergh Sourdland Mountain home. It was a find which definitely shattered Lindbergh's hope and the hope of the world that the baby would be returned safe and alive.

Lindbergh was advised at sea and landed at Cape May, N. J., a few hours later and hurried home to console his grieving wife.

Discovery of the pitiful, mutilated corpse, with the skull crushed, at Mount Rose Hill yesterday afternoon, less than five miles from the Lindbergh home, horrified the nation. It removed all barriers to bringing into play every power hitherto held in check for fear overt police action might bring harm to the baby.

Authorities made it plain that a hunt perhaps unprecedented in criminal history was already in progress; that no spot on earth would be safe for the killers; that every peace officer in the United States would be on the alert, that foreign police would lend their full co-operation; that no matter where the blood-money extorted from the tortured parents is spent, it will be traced.

Col. Schwarzkopf announced a gang of suspects is already under observation and that "immediate steps will be taken and are being taken to accomplish their arrest." This was believed to refer to information Condon and Curtis might have.

CRIME WAS BRUTAL
Police were spurred by the almost incredible callousness of the crime, indicating it either had been committed by a madman for revenge, or by criminals so debased as to be classed scarcely as human, or by amateurs frightened by publicity.

The child for which the world has been searching for two and a half months was murdered soon after the kidnaping—perhaps on the night of the kidnaping itself.

It was 3:15 p. m. yesterday when a Negro truck driver and his helper found the skeleton in a clump of woods about four and a half miles south of the Lindbergh home near the tiny hamlet of Mount Rose.

The baby had been killed, apparently by a blow on the head, and the corpse secreted in the woods about seventy-five feet from the road. An attempt had been made to conceal it in a shallow depression, probably scraped in the underbrush, and it may have been covered up until the wind and rain of more than two months brought it to light to be casually discovered by the horrified truckman.

The body lay face down. The Schwarzkopf issued the following sleeping suit was missing. Two statements:
"As long as there was a possibility of the baby being alive, the police have been proceeding with a certain amount of suppressed activity in order not to interfere with any negotiations that might result in the safe return of the baby."

"Now that the body of the baby has been found, every possible effort will be used and all men necessary will immediately exercise every possible effort to accomplish the arrest of the kidnapers and murderers."

GROUP IS SUSPECTED
"We have had under suspicion a group of persons suspected of being the kidnapers and immediate steps will be taken and are being taken to accomplish their arrest."

After announcing the finding of the body to the press, Col.

LAW FORCES AROUSED BY BRUTAL SLAYING; BODY REVEALS CRIME

Emergency telephones for this case are lying on the ground where they were placed by telephone men within seventy-five feet from where the body was found.

Later, he amplified his statement as follows: "A preliminary telephone report from the county physician indicates that a number of positively identifying characteristics have been discovered in the body found today, which would identify it as being the body of the Lindbergh baby.

"Betty Gow has positively identified the garments found on the body discovered today as being the garments in which the Lindbergh baby was clothed on the night of the kidnapping. The sleeping suit was not on the body, but the two shirts on the body have been positively identified by Betty Gow.

"Mrs. Morrow (Mrs. Lindbergh's mother) and Mrs. Lindbergh were at the Hopewell house when it became known that the body found today was that of the Lindbergh child. Col. Lindbergh was immediately communicated with and is on his way to Hopewell now.

"The body was found on the left side of the road going from Mount Rose to Hopewell. More than twenty additional troopers were immediately ordered to duty upon the discovery of the facts which have come to light today. Additional men are being detailed as needed.

"Information concerning the gang referred to is now being checked and such parts of it as will not interfere with the apprehension of the gang will be revealed in a later bulletin."

DEAD SOME TIME

The medical report tends to confirm the theory that the baby had been killed almost immediately after the kidnapping. After Miss Gow had identified the body at the Trenton Morgue, slipping in the back door to avoid a large crowd, Dr. Mitchell said:

"Miss Gow was not able to identify the body entirely to my satisfaction. I shall make my report on 'an unknown baby.' But if the Lindbergh family claims the body, I shall release the body to them as Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr. None of the Lindbergh family has seen the body yet.

"I examined the body for two hours in a post-mortem, removing the scalp and exposing the left side of the skull, which had been badly fractured.

SKULL FRACTURED

"The death could have been caused by a bullet, by the child having been banged against a tree, hit by an automobile or hit with a club or other instrument. In any event, death was caused by a fractured skull. The baby had been dead about two months. I could not say what day he died because the body has been exposed and deteriorated faster than if it had been in a receptacle."

The tragic culmination of the kidnapping, ending weeks of frantic search throughout the United States, Europe and Central America, came with smashing suddenness late in the afternoon. Reporters who for weary weeks have kept vigil at Hopewell were summoned to the Lindbergh home by Col. Schwarzkopf.

They came at breakneck speed over the muddy country roads in a dismal rain and gathered in the Lindbergh garage. The delay seemed endless before all had gathered and Schwarzkopf ordered the doors locked. Then he made his statement, as follows:

NEGRO FINDS BODY

"We have to announce that apparently the body of the Lindbergh baby was found at 3:15 p. m. today by William Allen, Negro, of Trenton, who was riding on the Mount Rose Road toward Hopewell.

"He was riding with Orville Wilson on a truckload of timber. They stopped the truck so he could answer a call of nature.

"He went into the woods for this purpose on the Mount Rose Hill, in Mt. Rose, N. J. Going under a bush, he lowered his head and as he raised his head, he saw a skeleton on the ground.

"He says in his statement that what he saw had a person's foot on it. He called back to Mr. Wilson. Mr. Wilson ran into the woods, saw what it was and decided to go to Hopewell and get the police. He notified Chief Wolf, who notified these headquarters. Inspector Walsh, of Jersey City; Sgt. Moffatt, of the Newark Police; Lieut. Keaton, of the New Jersey State Police, and a number of other detectives immediately went to the scene.

DECOMPOSITION SET IN

"They reported finding the body of a child estimated to be between a year and half and two years old, in a bad state of decomposition, but having blond hair and wearing what appeared to be an undershirt and a flannel band around the body.

"Not satisfied with this as identification, men were sent back into Hopewell to the Lindbergh estate to get samples of the undershirt the baby wore and of the flannel shirt the baby had on the night of the kidnapping. This flannel shirt had an embroidered scalloped edge on it. These articles were taken back to the scene and compared with the clothing found on the body and matched closely enough to afford an identification of the body as that of the Lindbergh baby.

"The statement of William Allen and Orville Wilson says that the body was pretty well concealed by leaves, dirt and brush. The skull had a hole in it about the size of a quarter just above the forehead. The body was lying in a depression, as though an attempt had been made to bury it face down.

"Mercer County Physician, Dr. Charles H. Mitchell, and the county coroner, Walter Swayze, were immediately called in."

Not until he had finished his statement would Schwarzkopf permit the doors to be opened and the reporters to depart, although they had tried to dash away as soon as he said the body had been found. In a few minutes the news was flashed to a shocked world.

RANSOM PROVED HOAX

Discovery of the body revealed the cruelty practiced on Col. Lindbergh when the kidnapers, or persons pretending to be the kidnapers, extorted $50,000 from him for a child already dead.

It revealed, too the futility of the great hunt that has been going on. While searchers hunted the Sourland Hills, supposedly "combing" every foot and undoubtedly passing along the road within seventy-five feet of the body, it lay undetected in the bushes.

While the cold rains of March and April beat down on the stilling form, false hopes were being aroused almost daily by clues that at the time looked plausible. Col. Lindbergh, through his intermediaries, was negotiating with the supposed kidnapers and hopefully paying over his $50,000 to be vilely tricked.

The public watched the "Jafsie" notes published in the papers by Dr. John F. Condon, the colonel's intermediary; read, "The money is ready" and thrilled with hope; read later, "Have you crossed me? Please better directions" and then learned that the money had been paid when the numbers of the bills were broadcast to the world.

RAN DOWN MANY CLUES

All the time, Lindbergh was working untiringly, following every hopeful clue, making flying trips to Connecticut Sound, over Long Island waters and to Virginia, hoping Condon and Curtis had turned up something real.

With the baby dead, Mrs. Edward B. McLean, of Washington, was paying over to Gaston B. Means, in a generous effort to help, $104,000 which is yet to be recovered.

Prominent citizens, lawyers, educators and public officials, cooperated in the most amazing degree in the great hunt. The press called off its men from the Lindbergh estate at the colonel's request, and tried not to publish news that would hinder the progress of the case.

MANY OFFERED HELP

Those who tried to help ranged from Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University, to Salvatore Spitali, New York racketeer. A retired rear admiral, Guy H. Burrage, and the dean of an Episcopal cathedral, the Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, raised great hopes at Norfolk, but apparently also were duped or on a false trail.

All such efforts were ended abruptly by the finding of the body. Authorities had real hope that the trail of the murderers would be uncovered.

The fact that Col. Lindbergh was sufficiently convinced of the authenticity of one gang to pay $50,000 led to the supposition that they may have exhibited pieces of the missing baby's garments or given symbols from the original kidnapping note demanding $50,000 ransom, left in the nursery when the child was stolen.

WITHHOLD NOTE

Regarding those angles, Col. Schwarzkopf issued the following special bulletin at 1:30 a. m. today: "The ransom note is not available and the prosecuting authorities have classed it as important evidence and have ordered that it should not be made available to the press.

"No footprints were found in the vicinity of where the baby's body was located. This whole territory was thoroughly scoured by the investigators from this office, even to the extent of scraping the surface of the ground around where the baby's body was found, putting it in the containers and bringing it to these headquarters for the purpose of check and analysis.

"Dr. Condon and Mr. Curtis will be at these headquarters in a few minutes for questioning in connection with this case and will be turned over by the police authorities at this point to the prosecuting authorities this morning."

CONDON IS SILENT

Condon had no comment to make when first informed the child's body had been found. He would not see newspapermen.

His bodyguard, Al Reich, a retired boxer, said:

"The doctor is too busy preparing a lecture. He heard of the discovery over the radio, but hasn't received any direct news concerning it."

When reporters continued their efforts to see Condon himself, Reich said angrily, "Come on, take the gate, take the gate. He's seeing no one."

The bodyguard then closed the door.

The place where the body is found made it plausible to suppose that the murder had been committed immediately after the kidnapping since the slayers would hardly have left the vicinity with the child and then returned days later with the body through the cordon of police that surrounded the countryside.

At day break a detachment of state police went over the ground surrounding the spot where the body was found. They examined the terrain minutely. A few feet from where the body lay, they found a burlap bag beneath some rocks.

This was the only find and it was taken to the Lindbergh home.

XENIA AND GREENE COUNTY OBITUARY, FUNERAL NOTICES

JOHN M. GALLAGHER
John M. Gallagher, former Xenian, died at his home in Cincinnati, Wednesday evening relatives here have learned. He had been in failing health several years.

Mr. Gallagher was born in Xenia and spent his early life here. He had been employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad as switch tender in the Cincinnati yards but was retired by that company January 1 after forty-five years' service.

Mr. Gallagher is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ellen Gallagher, two sons, John and Raymond Gallagher and a daughter, Mrs. Charles Kowalska, all of Cincinnati. He also leaves four sisters, Mrs. George Walsh, Mrs. Hannah Rudduck and Miss Mary Gallagher, this city; and Mrs. John Hoefler, Columbus, and a brother, Alexander Gallagher, Detroit.

Funeral services will be held at St. Rose Church, Cincinnati, Saturday morning and burial will be made in St. Brigid Cemetery here. The funeral party will arrive at the cemetery at 11:30 a. m.

DAYTON PASTOR SPEAKS BEFORE BIBLE CLASS HERE

The Rev. Loren W. Veith, pastor of Pleasant Valley Mission Reformed Church, near Dayton, gave an interesting talk on "Modern Miracles" when he appeared as guest speaker before the Men's Bible Class of the First Reformed Church at a dinner meeting at the church Thursday evening. He illustrated his talk with motion pictures showing the work being done at the mission.

Thirty-five members of the class and their guests enjoyed dinner preceding the Rev. Mr. Veith's talk.

LUNCHEON-BRIDGE IS DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR HERE

Mrs. J. J. Stout, Hill St., was hostess to a group of sixteen guests at a delightful informal luncheon bridge at her home Thursday afternoon. The guests enjoyed a three course luncheon at 1 o'clock.

Later four tables of bridge were in play and at the close of the games prizes were presented Mrs. James T. Hibbert and Mrs. L. E. John.

Mrs. E. E. Lighthiser, S. Monroe St., who has been confined to her home by illness the past week, is now improved and able to be out.

A meeting of officers of Aldora Chapter, O. E. S., will be held at the Masonic Temple Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Roy Hamilton, Walnut St., who has been ill from heart trouble, is now recuperating.

All members of the junior choir of the First U. P. Church are urged to meet for rehearsal at the church Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Sarah F. Davis, Lake St., who has been ill at her home suffering from a nervous breakdown, is now improving. Mrs. Davis celebrated her 101st birthday in January.

Mrs. Bert Green, E. Third St., is suffering from blood poisoning in his right hand.

Mrs. Jesse Chambliss, California St., who has been confined to her home several months by illness, is slowly improving.

Mr. Glenn Willis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Willis, Jamestown, underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis at City Hospital, Springfield, Thursday morning. His condition is serious as his appendix had ruptured.

Mrs. Herbert Fierce and daughter, of Dayton, are spending this week with Mrs. Fierce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ary, S. Monroe St.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Burba, east of Xenia, are announcing the birth of a son at their home Thursday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Burba are tenants on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. James Fudge, Jamestown Pike.

Mrs. Henry Fetz, W. Church St., who has been ill at her home several weeks, shows slight improvement and is able to sit up a short time each day.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Mercer, W. Main St., are the parents of a daughter born at their home Wednesday evening.

Mr. Joseph Schardt, Center St., is critically ill at his home and little hope is held for his recovery.

Members of the Junior Garden Club of Central Junior and Senior High School are asked to meet at the Hornick plot of ground in the Dadds addition Saturday morning between 9 and 12 o'clock and they will be allotted ground for the gardens this summer. Members of the Junior Garden Clubs of McKinley and Spring Hill Schools will meet at the Little lot, N. West St., Saturday afternoon after 1 o'clock.

Miss Ruth Radford, Greene County home demonstration agent, went to Washington C. H., Friday afternoon where she outlined plans for the summer's work for 4-H Club clothing leaders of Fayette County. The meeting was held at the Y. W. C. A. there.

Mrs. Winifred H. Armstrong, N. Galloway St., who has been spending several months in Chatham, N. J., with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Norton, is now spending several days in Washington, D. C., and is stopping at the Dodge Hotel while there.

Mrs. John W. Rheubert is seriously ill at her home on High St.

Mrs. John Day, Dayton, formerly of Xenia, is suffering from blood poisoning in her left foot. The infection was caused when she punctured her foot with a screen wire.

Miss Mary Huff, Clifton, is spending a week in Cincinnati as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hill.

McLELLAND W. C. T. U. MEETS WEDNESDAY

Twenty-five members and visitors of McLeelland W. C. T. U. met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Weiss, Lower Bellbrook Pike. Mrs. Earl McClellan was in charge of the program on "Child Welfare and Mothers".

Mrs. J. S. Van Eaton gave a report of a child welfare conference held in Xenia recently and Mrs. McClellan read a story illustrating mother love. Velma Hess and Martha McClellan sang two duets.

During a social hour light refreshments were served by Mrs. Weiss assisted by Mrs. William Butcher and Mrs. Charles Weiss.

W. C. T. U. ENJOYS INTERESTING PROGRAM.

Mrs. J. P. Fudge had charge of the first part of the program on soldiers' and sailors' work when South Side W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. Emory Beall, Union Road, Thursday afternoon. Those taking part in this part of the program were Mrs. Arthur Dean, Mrs. Frank Wolf Jr., and Miss Cora McDonald. The program was interspersed with patriotic songs.

The second part of the program on flower missions was in charge of Miss Jane Curl and Mrs. Laura Ford. Mrs. R. C. Ledbetter and Mrs. W. N. Nocka gave readings. Devotionals were conducted by the Rev. W. E. Nocka and a short business session preceded a social hour.

The Berean Sunday School Class of Trinity M. E. Church will meet at the home of Miss Georgia Ledbetter, 311 Hill St., Monday evening. The following group will be in charge: Mrs. Wilbur Street, Mrs. Brant Bell, Mrs. George Street, Mrs. William Pickel, Mrs. Griffy, Mrs. J. J. Stout and Miss Georgia Ledbetter.

James A. Booker, Wilberforce University professor, will speak at Memorial Day services at Cherry Grove Cemetery it was announced following a joint meeting of the Charles Young Camp, Spanish-American War veterans, and John Roan Post, No. 517, American Legion and its auxiliary, Wednesday evening.

Prof. Booker, who teaches English and is in charge of publicity, served overseas during the World War. He is a graduate of Colgate University.

Memorial Day activities will start Sunday May 29 when Rev. Leslie Smith, pastor of E. Main St. Christian Church, will deliver the annual sermon at his church at 2:30 p. m. Women's auxiliaries of the two patriotic organizations will present a musical program at the service.

A parade will precede Prof. Booker's address, forming on Patton St., with the head at Main and Patton Sts., and moving west on Main St. at 1:30 p. m. Patrolman George Robinson as grand marshal and mounted officers of the Greene County Chapter of the Reserve Officers' Association will lead.

In the line of march will be the Wilberforce University Band and R. O. T. C. battalion, Spanish-American War veterans and auxiliary in charge of Commander Ellisworth Weaklin, and the American Legion and auxiliary in charge of Charles F. Points Jr. Following these organizations there will be automobiles carrying Civil War veterans and veterans' widows, gold star mothers and guests of honor. Other East End citizens are asked to join in the parade following these cars and to have their automobiles decorated appropriately for the occasion.

CLIFTON CHURCH TO INSTALL MINISTER

Rev. Claire V. McNeal will be installed as pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Clifton, at services Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. He has been preaching at the church several weeks.

Dr. Charles Plymate, Dayton, will preside and Rev. Carl White, pastor of the Yellow Springs Presbyterian Church will deliver the sermon. Dr. W. P. Harriman, pastor of Memorial Presbyterian Church, Dayton, and former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Cedarville, will deliver the charge to the Rev. McNeal and Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College, will deliver the charge to the congregation.

The Clifton pastorate is Rev. McNeal's first charge. He graduated from Western Theological Seminary, Pittsburgh, May 4 and was ordained as a minister at his home church near Altoona, Pa., a week ago.

VILLAGE OF CEDARVILLE SUES FOR FUNDS IN EXCHANGE BANK

Village of Cedarville, which has all its public funds amounting to $11,060.70, tied up in the closed Exchange Bank at Cedarville, has brought suit for this sum in Common Pleas Court against the six directors of the defunct financial institution.

The bank directorate is composed of Robert Elder, Miron I. Marsh, A. E. Swaby, Howard S. Smith, J. B. Rife and W. J. Tarbox. It is claimed in the suit that payment of vouchers drawn on village funds on deposit has been refused by the state banking department, because the assets of the bank are in process of liquidation. The bank failed May 4.

The suit is directed to collect up to a $20,000 depository bond, executed to the village last January 24, with the directors as sureties, supposed to protect all public funds of the village on deposit. Attorney Harry D. Smith represents the village.

The suit is expected to be the forerunner of three more legal actions against the bank, which may be filed on behalf of the Cedarville Twp. trustee board, Cedarville board of education and Greene County Board of Commissioners, all of which had public money on deposit in the institution. County public funds on deposit amount to slightly more than $10,000, it is understood.

NOW SCIENCE TELLS WHY BRAN IS SO GOOD FOR HEALTH

Kellogg's ALL BRAN Has "Bulk" and Vitamin B; Also Healthful Iron

By using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, millions of people have overcome common constipation, and the headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so frequently result.

New laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN supplies two things needed to overcome temporary and recurring constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently it clears the intestines of wastes.

Further experiments prove ALL-BRAN provides twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Eat this delicious cereal and avoid pills and drugs. They cause artificial action, and often lead to harmful habits.

Try two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily—sufficient to overcome most types of constipation. If your intestinal troubles are not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN has a delicious, nut-sweet flavor. Enjoy as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in making fluffy bran muffins, breads, omelets, etc. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Anthony Barran of Dayton Drive, Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. George are visiting friends and neighbors in Osborn and Fairfield.

Mrs. Bruce LeVeck was in Dayton shopping Thursday.

Mayor Naragon was in Xenia Thursday on business.

OHIO RANKING NEAR BOTTOM IN WELFARE WORK SAYS SPEAKER

"Although Ohio is rated as one of the wealthiest states in the Union it rates sixth from the bottom in the amount of money spent on welfare programs," declared Dr. Charles Sherwood, Columbus, of the Ohio Mental Hygiene Association, at a luncheon meeting of Inter-county Group 13 of the Ohio Probation Association in the Rotary Club's room, Donges Bldg., Thursday noon. He outlined plans how a welfare association may receive state relief for mother's pensions and school welfare work.

Dr. Charles Scott Berry, Columbus, director of the bureau of special education at Ohio State University, urged that every county perfect an organization for child welfare work. This organization should have as its members representatives from interested organizations and should function in cases of emergencies. Miss Hannah Protzman, Columbus, who has been organizing inter-county welfare groups throughout the state, outlined plans for the Ohio Probation Association meeting in Columbus in June. The group will visit all state institutions in Columbus then, she pointed out.

Thirty-four welfare workers, probation officers, juvenile judges and persons interested in welfare work from Montgomery, Clark and Greene Counties attended the meet-

A REAL PROMISE

We sincerely trust James Truslow Adams is a real prophet when he promises that another boom will follow the present day depression, as he reviews the history of our country.

The writer of an article to this end is a graduate of Yale University, has many honorary degrees and was a member of the stock exchange until 1912 when he became a captain of the military intelligence of the U. S. Army.

In a recent article he says: "Through the entire history of America booms and depressions have run as regularly as a normal pulse, and the present depression will be ended by a boom just as all the others have been. The country has been through far worse times than these."

"In the panic that lasted from 1837 to 1841 50 per cent of the property in the United States changed hands. In 1857 times were nearly as bad, and from 1873 to 1879 the depression was far worse than it is now. In 1893 I saw troops outside our house here in New York, and cavalry charging a hungry mob. Many of the large railroads were thrown into the hands of receivers. There have been excellent times since."

"It is usual to say that general conditions, inventions of labor-saving machinery, the experiment in Russia, the war debts, are behind all this trouble now. All have something to do with it, but when you consider the smooth curves of booms and depressions running through history from 1790 on, it is to wonder how really important they are."

"For the depression year 1790 came before the industrial revolution; in 1837 there were no electric lights, no huge factories with the mass production of the present. Consider the tremendous changes, steam replacing sail, motors replacing horses, that the capitalist system has withstood. Are the factors at work now so much stronger than the factors that were at work before?"

"The Russian experiment has drawn 150,000,000 persons from the capitalist system of the world. Since 1790 rather more than 117,000,000 have been added to the population of this country, the most conservative population on earth because nearly every one still has something to lose by a radical change."

"I find in New York now precisely the same attitude, precisely in reverse, that I found here in 1929. I wrote in an article published in December, 1928, that a business depression was under way; that market values must come down; that there was no 'new era.' I was selling my stocks then. Now I am buying. The situation today is no more new than was the situation in 1929."

"Secretary Mellon, President Coolidge, President Hoover upheld the market long after it should have dropped. Millions went into the top-heavy stocks during the mad months directly preceding the crash. The tremendous losses of capital necessary by the joining of a natural post-war depression with the low mark of the usual 20-year-cycle, were made greater by the 'new era' nonsense of the administration. And the men of New York, still rich, are walling like children who have lost toys."

"I can't predict when this will be over, when the toys will be returned, but I am certain that they will be returned as good as ever."

STORY OF AGE

Along with a reminder from Vatican City that Pope Pius XI, who will celebrate his seventy-fifth birthday at the end of the month, is the "oldest reigning monarch" in the world, comes a report on the ages of other reigning sovereigns in Europe. The story it tells is interesting.

Gustav of Sweden is 73 years old. George of England is 66, Victor Emanuel of Italy is 62, Christian of Denmark is 61, Haakon of Norway is 59, Albert of Belgium is 57 and Wilhelmina of Holland, who, only the other day as it seems was a young girl queen, is now 51. All these have passed the half century mark and some of them are approaching old age. For the rest, Alexander of Yugoslavia is 43, and Zog of Albania, Carol of Rumania and Boris of Bulgaria, are each 38. Those on thrones in Europe that are able to make a pretense of youth, reign over new or relatively unimportant kingdoms.

Other Editorial Thoughts

EPILOGUE TO SHANGHAI

The central feature of the peace which has at last been signed at Shanghai is the appointment of a special constabulary force which will take over the policing of the area evacuated by the Japanese.

If only some such measure had been enforced prior to the hostilities! The situation invited neutral intervention. Good faith between China and Japan had been cast into the Yangtze River. Here was the opportunity for the kind of statesmanship that takes events and molds them in peaceful directions. If the powers had assumed charge and established a neutral zone, most probably they could have promoted peace. At least they could have deferred the breaking point. But such a proposal, mooted by the diplomats on the spot, was introduced only after that ugly thing that passes for national honor had become involved. The delay seems to have been due to the fact that pre-conflict peace making passed bewilderingly back and forth between the Shanghai committee and the powers in their chancelleries.

This time man-on-the-spot diplomacy has prevailed. The Committee of Nineteen at Geneva deserves much credit for allowing the informal Shanghai mediation to proceed without interference. In a situation such as this, where two parties were still full of suspicions, mediation had to be both personal and authoritative. China and Japan must now be realizing their good fortune in having had at hand such an understanding "go-between" as Sir Miles Lampson, British Minister to China. He it was who evolved the formula which won the assent of the two parties.

Sir Miles had long preparation for his task. He was at Sir Austen Chamberlain's right hand at Locarno. Of course, it was not enough to bring Locarno to Shanghai. That was merely a beginning. But Sir Miles had that other essential in his equipment—an understanding of Oriental thinking, gained after long experience in diplomatic posts in the Orient.

But the British Minister would be the first to give the greater share of the credit to the personnel of the two delegations. The quality of Mr. Mamoru Shigemitsu, the Japanese negotiator, was disclosed after the bombing outbreak of a week ago. Though he had nearly forty pieces of the bomb imbedded in him, he dictated a dispatch to Tokyo urging his Government not to falter in the peace negotiations. Of such is the best in Japan made! Had he been in Shanghai on January 28 (he was on his way from Japan at the time) he might have restrained the navy hot-heads who opened hostilities.

As for Quo Tai-chi, the Chinese negotiator, courage is again the distinguishing characteristic to be noted. The fourth minister to be assaulted by student rowdies, he stuck to his job and added his signature to the peace agreement, as did Mr. Shigemitsu, at his bedside.

If we cannot conclude that the peace is a happy ending, at least we may say that it is a new beginning—auspicious, let us hope, of the recovery of the good faith which was lost in the Yangtze and of the consignment of remaining suspicions to those muddy depths—Christian Science Monitor.

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK.—Parades will always remain something of a mystery to me. No one seems to enjoy them much, except perhaps small boys and strapping blackamoors twirling gold-balled swagger sticks.

If you want to see faces fallen like reflections in Coney Island comic mirrors, observe Fifth Avenue merchants while an official procession is in process of passing their doors—and savoring business thereby. Or take a squint at my own nose too prepossessing visage while I'm in the act of hitting the parade line in an effort to get crostown.

ENIGMA NO. 2

Another mystery is the anti-prohibition attitude of the average speakeasy bartender. All of that jovial tribe seems to want legal beer in tomorrow, when a revision of the law would throw most of them out of work.

"SHINE, MISTER"

When the yellow light of 7 a. m. slants down across Union Square, the bootblacks take their places. Some of them are youngsters, but there are veterans of the profession, with hoary locks or fierce black mustaches.

These are not relics of better times forced into menial tasks. They are, for the most part, life-long members of the shoe-shining guild. For a columnist not overcome by his own dignity and the importance of his nightly stool in the high-jinks emporiums, the shine boys are revelatory.

Predominating in the profession, my researches indicate, are Arabs and Portuguese, although representatives of every race, including the good old melting-pot American can be spotted. If you imagine they are, as a class, burdened with an inferiority complex from their labors, you are wrong.

There are good polishers and bad. The proficient practitioners, with a following of regular customers, have little respect for, or traffic with, the dust. Over locations in the pedestrian streams through the square fierce competitive wars are waged. One dour Arab, with rickety-rax connections, summoned a pair of his thuggish friends and cleared out all the burnishers in a radius of two hundred yards.

Then there is the kindly gentleman who used to be located on the northwest corner of the square. He would lecture me on the carelessness of his colleagues, pointing out the emptiness of mere snap and fury in the application of the polishing rag.

WINDFALL

No inquiry into shoe-shinistry would be complete without mention of my friend, Joe, who used to own half interest in a stand at Third Avenue and 42nd Street. Joe was a more than ordinarily conscientious burnisher and might have gone far—if he had not been swept into higher (or lower) strata by sheer luck.

He won $8,000 in a foreign sweepstakes, on an investment of 50 cents, and sold his share in the stand. "I'm gonna do two things with that dough," he told me the morning fortune smiled. "Buy my mudder a operation and get me dogs shined in every joint between here and de Hudson!"

EACH REDUCTION IN GOVERNMENTAL ECONOMY BRINGS HOWL OF PROTEST

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Preach the gospel of governmental economy in broad general terms according to Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, and every head bows in respectful acquiescence.

But suggest any specific reduction allowance voted by the house of representatives, and the Tennessee statesman had, during senatorial working hours from the vigil he has been compelled to maintain to prevent an appropriation measure from getting by without the prescribed paring down to its total.

Senator McKellar is the upper chamber and adopting a resolution to lop 10 per cent from each financial allowance voted by the house of representatives. Ever since then not an instant's respite has the Tennessee statesman had, during senatorial working hours from the vigil he has been compelled to maintain to prevent an appropriation measure from getting by without the prescribed paring down to its total.

"And if you've sat in the press gallery," the senator remarked to me after a few weeks of this experience, "and listened to the abuse I've had heaped on my head, for trying to save Uncle Sam a quarter of billion dollars, maybe you have a fair idea of the hot water I got into by accepting responsibility for that 10 per cent resolution."

At first it was not so bad. Senator McKellar won favorable action on his first half dozen or so of cuts easily. To be sure, those of his fellow senators who were especially interested in the various bureaus and commissions directly affected howled vociferously, but the great majority looked on its program approvingly. Presently it began to dawn on them, however, that their respective pet boards, divisions and units would suffer, too, in due course unless they joined forces. Realization of this peril was the signal for the Tennesseean's troubles to start in earnest.

The bitterest complaint is that the McKellar economy plan will throw thousands of federal workers out of employment. "Bah!" says the senator scornfully. "That's almost pure propaganda by cabinet members who don't want funds of their departments curtailed. For example, it is represented that the postal service will be starved down practically to a skeleton."

"As a matter of fact, what are the postal economies I really do propose?"

"I propose to cut off $35,000,000 in subsidies paid to ocean steamship companies."

"I propose to cut off $10,000,000 in aviation subsidies."

"They are not necessary; they are downright illegal."

"And I propose to cut off $25,000,000 in virtual subsidies in the form of inadequate rates for the carrying of magazines."

"That's a sizable saving—$70,000,000."

"How many clerks and letter carriers' jobs will it cost? None."

Parentetically, Congressman Clyde Kelly of Pennsylvania, the house of representatives' foremost authority on the mail service, is in hearty accord with Senator McKellar in opposition to the inclusion of shipping and aviation subsidies among charges against the post office department.

"It may be," he says, "that our ocean shipping and air lines deserve encouragement, but it certainly should not be called a postal expense."

The difficulty in the way of calling it anything else, of course, is that it would be difficult for the ocean ship-owners and aviation companies to get the money under any other name. Camouflaged as payments for transportation of the mails, the items attract no particular attention. Subsidies baldly so described, are likelier to be inquired into.

"Just so," nods Senator McKellar. "Well, those are the kind of savings I'm trying to effect. Those are the kind of savings I'm accused of conspiring against an army of federal workers' jobs for demanding."

"It's an accusation based, as I've said, on cabinet propaganda—and in the face of President Hoover's expressed wish for the strictest economy."

In Andrew Jackson's day or Grover Cleveland's or Woodrow Wilson's (yes, the senator's political faith is Democratic) "it would have cost jobs all right. It would have cost the cabinet propagandists' jobs."

Why Skin's Subject To Diseases

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The skin and its diseases constitute one of the most frequent subjects for inquiries from readers. This is so, because disease of the skin is so frequent and so frequent because the patient with skin disease can always see that there is something the matter as well as feel.

Then there is a peculiar feeling of repugnance which people feel about their own skin diseases. Young people with pimples suffer from more mental torture than a man with a broken leg. All these features combine to render these conditions a subject of ever-present interest.

The skin is subject to so many diseases, partly on account of its peculiar position in the body and partly on account of its structure. By its peculiar position, I mean it "fronts" for the whole body. It bears the brunt of attacks by heat, cold, germs, sharp instruments, corrosive chemicals—any kind of enemy which may threaten the body.

But the skin also has certain peculiar reactions of its own. It reflects deep-seated internal bodily changes in its own peculiar way. This is the reason, perhaps, that the idea still persists so doggedly that skin disease is due to some disorder of the blood. Such diseases as hives illustrate this.

Skin diseases have played an important role in the history of medical progress. The germ theory ceased being a theory and was proved a fact by the study of a skin disease. This disease was the itch. The science of contagion was established when the itch mite was demonstrated.

The story is an interesting one. Oliver Wendell Holmes says, medicine "learned how to identify the itch mite from an old market woman." The old market woman lived in Corsica and she taught a young man, named Renucci, how to spear the little mites out of the deeper layers of the skin affected with the itch. Later Renucci began to study medicine in Paris. He found the professors teaching that the itch was due to morbid humors in the blood.

So he proposed to his professor of skin diseases, Baron Alibert, that he be allowed to demonstrate the real cause of the itch. And on the point of a needle, before a group of physicians and medical students, he speared an itch mite from the skin of a patient with the itch. The itch mite was put under a microscope so that all might see it was alive.

Renucci also announced that in his country it was the belief that the itch mite hid in bedding and mattresses and burrowed its way underneath the skin while its victim was asleep. Thus the first step was taken in the study of the prevention of parasitic diseases, by destroying the cause. And this was only about 100 years ago—pretty late in the history of the human race.

Almost the next parasite demonstrated to cause disease in man was the vegetable fungus which causes favus, a particularly repulsive and destructive disease of the scalp.

Insults Always Best Ignored

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

To keep from being overcome by unpleasant circumstances a correspondent advises filling the mind and life with pleasant things. She writes:

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: In answer to Sally M., would say: Do not pay too much attention to slurs and insults of boys and girls. I've stood far more than 15 years of such treatment. Pay no attention to same, even though it hurts; let it go in one ear and out the other. Interest yourself in so many activities outside the home that it fills your mind with other experiences. Join church or club activities, with a pleasant group of women, and in that way the bad times will always be uppermost in your mind instead of the sordid."

"Hustle and do your work at home and then go out for play. Ease your mind in that way. Fight it off. There are so many ways to fill up your mind with nice and new ideas that the unpleasant ones will fade out of the picture. From one who knows."

"S. M. G." You may not always be able to drown out the unpleasant things of life in this way, but it certainly helps. A mind which is broad in the scope of its interests will not suffer as will one that has a very narrow circle of affairs.

"MY DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Would you please help me? I am always a failure at parties and a wallflower at dances. I have a nice home, am good looking and have nice clothes. I am also active in an organization for girls and like outdoor sports. It is a fully embarrassing to have the other girls talk about the partners they have while I have none."

"D. D.: Forget about it, is the best advice I can give you and the girl friend. As long as she did what was right—even if it was not very wise—there is no use in grieving about it."

WORRIED SAM: I imagine every night is too often for the girl friend to see you. She likes a change once in awhile and that is the reason she likes to date the other fellow occasionally. I don't imagine from what you say that she is very seriously in love with either of you, although if she cares to go with you well time, but the point is, keep on trying. Make it a sporting proposition and will to win.

Is this not the easiest thing in the world to do, I know, and you probably won't succeed the first time, but the point is, keep on trying. Make it a sporting proposition and will to win.

Island Styles Not For U.S. Beauty

By GLADYS GLAD

Down in the Fiji islands, the dusky lads and lassies go in heavily for elaborate hair arrangements. In addition, they lavishly employ a concoction of oil and the gum of the breadfruit tree as a kind of "stiffener" for their tresses. And yet I don't suppose that their intricately arranged mops have much on the molded, lacquered coiffures that were recently designed by the stylists for Miss 32.

As a rule, however, the strictly modern Miss 32 prefers soft, glossy hair. She knows that it provides a far more flattering frame for her face, and is far more youthful than any stiff, intricate coiffure. And so she avoids the use of stiffening lotions, lotions that might leave a residue on her head and dim the lustrous beauty of her hair.

The only sort of a lotion that Miss 32 employs, that is in the least of this nature is a wave-setting fluid. And there are so many excellent ones on the market that she should easily be able to find one that will not have any undesirable effects on her hair.

However, if she finds selection difficult, or likes to putter around with the making of her own cosmetics, she can make her own wave-setting lotion. There are two formulas that I have had experience with, and both are simple for the average amateur to follow. In the first one that I refer to, two teaspoons of quince seeds should be added to three and one-half pints of water, and the mixture permitted to boil from 5 to 10 minutes. Then it should be strained through a fine-meshed cloth, and a few drops of alcohol added to the resultant solution for preserving it. A bit of perfume may be added instead of the alcohol, if desired, as perfume usually contains enough alcohol to have the desired preservative effect.

In the second formula, two level tablespoons of flaxseed should be added to a quart and a half of water, and boiled for five minutes. Then, as above, the mixture should be strained through cheesecloth and a bit of alcohol, or perfume added to the resultant solution. If either lotion should seem too thick, it should be diluted with water when used.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES
Hair
Pet: Hot castor oil shampoos should help correct the dryness of your hair. A castile soap is better for blonde hair than a tar soap. A camomile tea solution will help to brighten the hair.

Legs
Tiny: It would be impossible for me to print my method of developing and shaping thin, shapely legs. The entire method, however, is fully described in my article on "Care of the Feet and Legs."

Mouth Wash
N. M.: A good mouth wash can be made by dissolving one-fourth a teaspoon of borax, one-fourth a teaspoon of salt, and one-fourth a teaspoon of peroxide in a glass of warm water.

"New Figure" Booklet
Dot: My "New Figure" booklet contains information on reducing, gaining, bust reduction and development, constipation, perspiration and superfluous hair. The reducing course is guaranteed to take off 8 to 10 pounds in two weeks.

Lou McCoy thinks that his batting prowess has been sadly overlooked, and so this department makes haste to rectify the omission, giving him the position of lead-off batter for this column. Lou catches for Coate's Barbers in the National League this season, and in the last game with the Hatchery, he knocked a triple his first time up and scored a run. Lou hit a single in his next effort and scored another run. Whereupon, like a Cincinnati Reds player who gets too good, he paid the penalty and was deducted from the contest and benched. Such is fame.

Steve Phillips, popular Xenia starter, who has been officiating at a running race meeting at Ravenna, O., scene of a controversy over race betting, will next have an engagement to get the harness horses away at a three-day Ohio Short Ship Circuit program at Urbana, the last three days this month.

During this meeting, Steve's newly-perfected and electrically-operated barrier device may get its first trial, and if it proves practical, the horsemen and fans like it, the new invention may be generally used on Ohio tracks this season.

Scheduled to have supervision over junior baseball competition in Greene, Clark, Montgomery, Preble and Darke Counties this year, William E. Hatfield, of Geo. Cutler Post, No. 6, American Legion, of Springfield, has been designated junior American Legion baseball chairman for the third Ohio district. Foody Post and the Legion post of Osborn-Fairfield generally sponsor junior teams each spring, with the Osborn-Fairfield nine just as generally representing this county in the district eliminations.

Opponents of an earlier proposal to delay opening of the Xenia softball season a couple of weeks to avoid possible rainy weather the latter part of April and early in May, now have the last laugh on the proponents. The plan was voted down, and it was just as well, because not a single postponement on account of unfavorable weather was necessary during the first two weeks of play.

Softball competition for 1932 was not initiated at Wilmington until Wednesday night when City League teams began their schedule. "Buddy" Bolser, former catcher for the Graham Paints here last year, is now back at Wilmington, from whence he came, and is identified with one of the teams organized in that city.

HOME CADETS BREAK HIGH SCHOOL HABIT OF KNOTTING SCORE

Cadets Win 9 to 3 As
R. Jones Subdues
Losers

Well, anyway Central High School softballers did not play another American League tie game Thursday night. The O. S. and S. O. Home cadets saw to that. From force of habit, it had been generally considered a foregone conclusion that the Buccaneers, having already figured in the contests with Company L and the Ex-Highs this season, would also scheme to become similarly involved against the cadets.

The cadet softballers, however, utterly refused to be a party to any such foolishness, and after nine innings of play the final score was far from even. In fact, the score was 9 to 3 and in favor of the cadets. In recording its second victory in three starts, the cadet team pounded out thirteen hits and benefited by six errors to count nine tallies in the first six innings off the pitching of Eddie Luttrell. Storer presided on the mound for Central in the last three stanzas and allowed two hits but no runs.

The pitching of Richard Jones, of the Home, was too much for Central batters. The cadet hurler was generous to a fault with passes, walking six batters, but when it came to permitting runners to score he proved an Indian giver. Jones allowed only three hits and no earned runs and struck out five batsmen. He was quite the life of the cadet party.

Schuck, shortstop, portrayed the leading batting role for the cadets. He smacked three singles, scored two runs and reached base on his other time at bat on an error.

The National League contest local fans have long awaited will take place Friday night when the unbeaten Anderson Abattoirs face the champion Lang Chevrolets.

CITY ADOPTS AUTO PARKING PROGRAM FOR HOME AVENUE

Acting Thursday night upon a request made by the federal and state highway departments, City Commission placed upon its first reading an ordinance prohibiting parking along the north side of Home Ave. from Detroit St. to Roger St., and on the south side of Home Ave. from Roger St. to the corporation line.

The commission had been requested to either widen Home Ave. or designate "no parking" regulations for one side of the avenue, which is a part of U. S. route 53, and in June will become a part of a new state route to be known as No. 10.

The avenue is only about twenty-two feet wide, or about ten feet short of regulation width that would meet state and federal requirements, and to widen it is considered impossible.

Accordingly, the commission instructed City Solicitor W. A. Miller to prepare a special ordinance containing the desired "no parking" rules.

There will probably be no objections raised to passage of the ordinance, city officials believe, because only two private residences are abutting Home Ave. on the north side between Detroit and Roger Sts., and no dwellings border the thoroughfare on the south side from Roger St. to the city limits.

The request of the state and federal highway departments was transmitted to City Commission through Henry W. Walsh, Greene County's division state highway engineer, who recently presented the matter before the commission.

Ultimately, compliance with the highway department requests may prove beneficial to the city at some future date when it is considered practical to replace the three bridges on Home Ave. with new structures.

When this time comes, the federal and state departments are expected to share the expense of bridge improvements on a fifty-fifty basis, providing the bridges are of proper width.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY CAPABLY REPEATED THURSDAY EVENING

"Nathan Hale", an historical play by Clyde Fitch, was witnessed by an enthusiastic audience when it was presented for the second time by the senior class of Central High School in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium Thursday evening. More than 800 persons attended the play Wednesday and Thursday evenings and the performance was well received on both evenings.

Miss Katherine Chew and Charles Weaver in the leading roles of "Alice Adams" and "Nathan Hale", respectively, surpassed their fine performance of Wednesday evening. The audience was responsive to the acting of John Beacham and Andrew Frazer, who took the comedy parts. Miss Annetta Price as "the widow Chichester" gave a finishing touch in a remarkably natural way to her part and Paul Baldwin as "Fitzroy", the British general, with his natural stage presence and consistent portrayal of a forceful character gave stability to that act.

An especially dramatic incident of the play was the one in which "Colonel Knowlton" (William Elchman) made an effective appeal for a man to act as spy in the British camp. The silent action of the American soldiers at that time depicted tenseness in a moment of crisis. The gorgeous uniforms and the gaiety of the British soldiers in contrast to the poverty and depression of the Americans gave an historical tone to the play and was also an outstanding highlight.

High school officials feel gratified that a difficult play as "Nathan Hale" was produced so capably here and the credit for its success is reflected on the director, Miss Olive Allen, of the English department, and her assistant, Miss Faye Cavanaugh.

Townsley Chick Chat

Cheap chicks cost more in the long run than good chicks, says W. R. Whitfield of Iowa State College. The quality of cheap chicks is generally as low as the price, says this poultry authority.

The death loss is usually high among the cheap chicks, and it requires more feed to make a pound of gain, because they come from weaker stock. If chicks are bought for 6 cents each and only 60 per cent are raised, which is the average for Iowa, the cost of each chick raised is 10 cents. Under present conditions, really good chicks can be bought for 10 cents, so why gamble on cheaper chicks?

Have you sent in your letter in the big Free Chick Contest announced in Monday's Chick Chat? All you need to do is to write 150 words or less on "Why Thoroughbred Chicks Are Profitable" and mail it to this hatchery. Costs you nothing to enter and you may win 100 free chicks. The first prize is 100 Triple Tested Thoroughbred chicks—second prize 50 chicks, and third prize 25 chicks. Send in your letter now.

STATE PLANS IMPROVEMENTS ON SPRINGFIELD - DAYTON ROAD

Henry W. Walsh, division state highway engineer for Greene County, revealed Friday he had received orders from the state highway department to start a survey on the Springfield-Dayton Road, state route 4, from the Montgomery County line to Fairfield, preliminary to extensive improvements to be begun this summer.

While official details of the project are lacking, Engineer Walsh understands the improvements under consideration contemplate the relocation of four miles of the road to eliminate dangerous grade crossings.

The crossings that would be eliminated include the Cincinnati and Lake Erie electric railway crossing near the Huffman dam, and the triple crossing of the Big Four and Erie steam railroads and the Cincinnati and Lake Erie electric line, two miles south of Fairfield.

From the triple crossing to Fairfield, the highway will probably be relocated to skirt the Patterson field army airport in order to permit anticipated improvements at the field, it is believed.

This would give more available space for new building and afford better use of the grounds in the event the route of the road is changed so that it would no longer pass through the center of the government land.

The division engineer said the fact he had been directed to make the preliminary survey at once indicated the projected improvements would probably be started this summer.

The next step, in his opinion, will be for the state department to sell the contract for grading and construction of bridges and culverts.

The program for this summer, Engineer Walsh believes, will be to grade the road and build structures, making a traffic-bound surface of gravel and crushed stone. This is not official, however, he said.

The distance from Fairfield to the Montgomery County line is five and one-half miles and the present road is macadamized.

UNION LABOR FIGHT CAUSES TWO DEATHS

CLEVELAND, O., May 13.—John Farrar, Jr., 26, of East Cleveland, died today of a bullet wound received Wednesday in a fight with James Ianni 47, a lathing contractor. Farrar's companion, Oliver Bissler, 40, business agent of Lathers' Union No. 2, also was shot to death by Ianni. The fight took place at a house under construction in South Euclid, a suburb, where Ianni had the contract for lathing. Ianni, who was held for the county grand jury on a charge of second degree murder, admitted shooting both union representatives but asserted he fired in self-defense after they had threatened him.

Market at King
W. H. Tilford, Pastor

No one can get along without worship! The church alone offers the worship of the true God. Church attendance is supplying our inmost souls with food and life-by worship. Your attendance at church is of paramount importance to you and your community.

9:15 a. m.—Bible School. Special number by the choir of the school.
D. D. Jones, Supt.
10:30 a. m.—Morning Worship—Enter into the courts of God with gladness. Organ numbers. "Christ Raises Jari's Daughter from Death" by Malling. "Pastorale" by Rogers and "Theme from Second Symphony" by Haydn. Sermon, Pentecost thought "Christ's Psychology of Certainty." Children's Object sermon.
7:30 p. m.—Union services. Lutheran Church. Rev. Lebold preaching.

How many times can you miss church before your moral and spiritual life suffers? There is a gradual let down and weakness of the moral stamina by not receiving the moral strength of church attendance and association. Attend church Sunday.

FIRST LUTHERAN CHURCH

Can You Afford To Deny The Church

Righteousness ennobles a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people.
—Proverbs 14:34.

The Nation's Pulse

MANY things do not constitute a wrong in themselves until they displace something of greater value. Many things are morally legitimate, but if they keep us from Church they do us a moral injury.

The Church is the pulse of national righteousness. It means hospitals, education, cleaner politics, purer social life; it means law and order and respect for those ideals that make a nation great; it means the reformation of individual life; it is the voice of God in the midst of the people, calling them up and on.

There is danger of that voice being silenced with the clatter of our materialism. Let us think of all the Church has done, of all it means today, and then give its sacred influence first place in our hearts and minds.

To Parents

The difference between the gangster on the street corner and the useful citizen in the home is usually the difference between the influence of evil example and the inspiration of Christian teaching. Your leadership will determine the character of your child. Can not the Church and Sunday School help you in this great work?

To the Stranger Among Us

To make the nation greater by your attendance at Church may seem a rather remote possibility, but think what it would mean if every traveler did the same thing. Our Churches are human, helpful, inviting places—won't you worship with us tomorrow?

Your Presence and Support?

NOW . . . the painters can come in the morning—you hang pictures the same day if you use Wallhide the Vitolized Oil Paint. Come in and let us tell you about this wonderful paint.

"My bedroom was painted and completely settled in one day!"

Bullfight Film Next; Studios Prepare Text

While other Hollywood companies are talking of bullfight pictures, Universal dispatched a man to Spain to photograph the biggest fights of the season there.

He is Tom Kilpatrick, former resident of Mexico and author of "Men Without Fear" which will be Universal's contribution to the threatened cycle of bull-ring melodramas.

The hero of the film, a matador, will be played by Lew Ayres but before this he will do an airmail story and there is still "Laughing Boy" to be disposed of. Kilpatrick will not be back before July.

Mary Moran
Puts her best foot forward even when wearing an ermine evening wrap. Sully, talk may be wearing the wraps in that manner soon. Styles have been crasier.

After making scenes in Madrid and Seville. In bull-fighting, he says, a matador is either a great bull fighter or he is dead.

After being taboo for some time, stories about Broadway are showing up again on the film lists. Fox plans to feature Joan Bennett in "Broadway Bad", a story of a stage-struck girl on the lane of many lights. William Lipman and A. W. Tezet are the authors and production is scheduled for the summer. Meanwhile Joan finished "Week-Ends Only" for Fox.

Two road shows are on the Universal release list for next season, besides twenty-six specials, twelve westerns and short subjects and news reels. "The Road Back", Remarque's sequel to "All Quiet" is the first road show. Slim Summerville was the first player engaged, the same performers who were in the original being engaged for the sequel so far as possible. R. C. Sheriff, author of Journey's End, is making the adaptation.

The other road show will be "Joeberg", a drama by Dr. Arnold Fanck which will be filmed in

PUBLIC DONATIONS
FINANCE REWARDS
TO FOUR STUDENTS

Thanks to generosity on the part of a group of individuals who have contributed out of their own pockets a greater part of the funds necessary to defray expenses, four school children, winners of an every-pupil George Washington essay contest conducted April 30, will be rewarded after all with a free sight-seeing trip to Washington, D. C., between May 21 and 26.

When the local George Washington Bicentennial Commission decided not to finance the trip, school officials in the four communities where the contest winners reside, undertook to raise the expense money themselves, through solicitation of subscriptions.

Apparent success of the fund-raising drive was announced Thursday afternoon by H. C. Aultman, county school superintendent. Should the entire amount necessary not be available, school officials in the four communities of Bowersville, Spring Valley, Jamestown and Cedarville have pledged themselves to procure the remainder, he said.

The pupils who will make the trip from Greene County are: George O'Bryan, of Jefferson Twp. High School, and Elaine Knoop, of Spring Valley High School, winners in the senior high school division; Marcella Glass, of Jamestown, and Dwight Hutchison, of Cedarville, winners in the junior high division.

A Foolproof Flower
By DEAN HALLIDAY
Garden Expert for Central Press and The Gazette

"What flower can a beginner grow?" asked my neighbor, "and not have any trouble in getting blooms?"

"A beginning gardener can grow almost anything," I told him, "if he follows a few directions. But if you want a real foolproof flower, grow zinnias."

Zinnias are among the easiest flowers to grow, and yet they fill the garden with color and are popular for cut flowers. They are annuals with a wide range of colors. Use smaller sizes for the front of the flower bed and for the back use some of the latest giant kinds that grow three feet high and have flowers as large as dahlias. Zinnias bloom early and late.

Free Gardening Advice
Choice of shrubs for foundation planting should be made according to height and preference for sunlight or shade. For advice on this subject write to the Good Gardening Department The Gazette, enclosing a stamped, addressed envelope, for a FREE personal reply.

BOWERSVILLE HIGH
GRADUATE CLASS

Ten girls and ten boys were graduated from Jefferson Twp. High School at Bowersville at commencement exercises Thursday night. The class was addressed by Joseph W. Fichter, assistant state director of education, and diplomas were presented by Charles Hollingsworth, president of the township board of education.

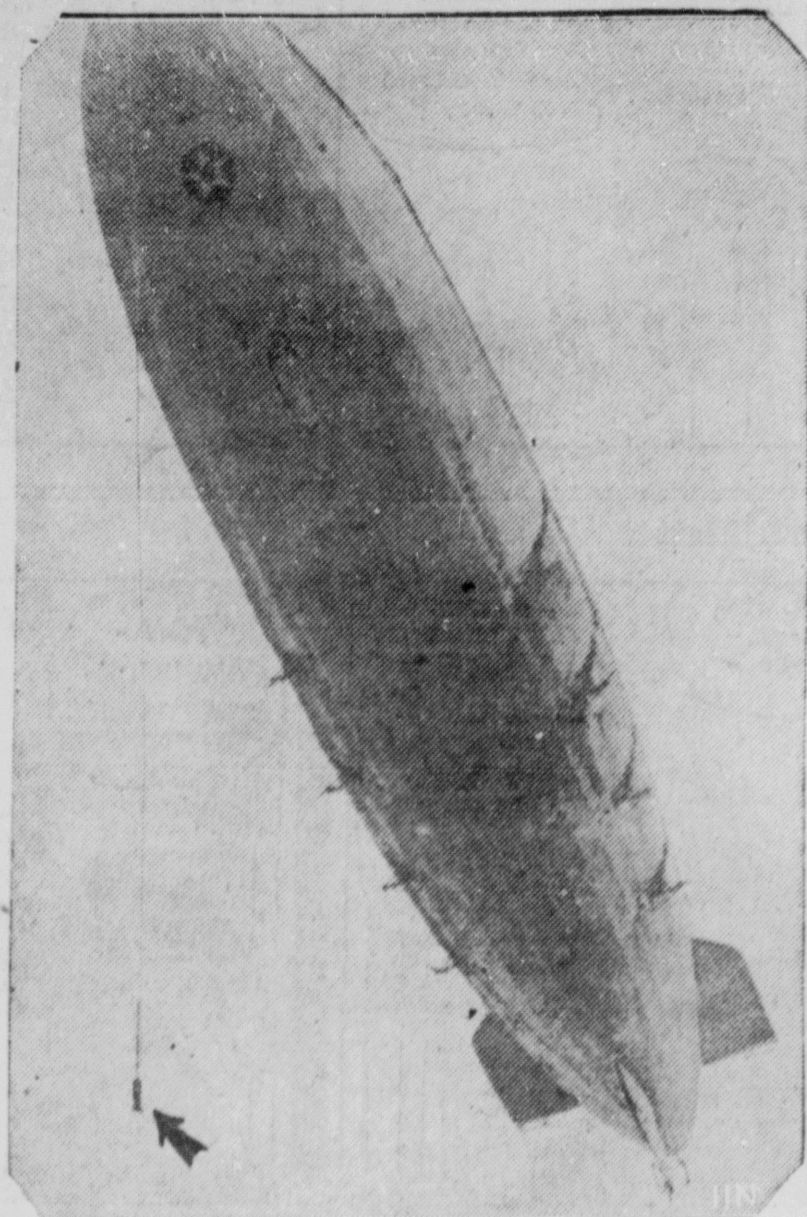

Six members of the graduating class had parts on the commencement program and the high school orchestra furnished music. A program of activities that included athletic events was held Friday, on the closing day of school.

TOUR FOR GREENE COUNTY WOMEN ANNOUNCED
Two outstanding features of the Home Economics Extension work in Greene County have been the personal help given to rural people in solving problems relative to living rooms and kitchens.

Five women have availed themselves of the opportunity to have specialists help in selecting wall finishes, arrangement of living room furniture and advice concerning the purchasing of new furnishings for their living rooms. Two of these women have been particularly interested in doing some upholstering.

Miss Anne Biebricher, Home Furnishing Specialist of Ohio State University advised these women as to type of material most suitable for that piece of furniture and room. Miss Biebricher also answered many questions about color combinations.

Thirty-nine women have received help from Miss Thelma Beall, Home Management Specialist in relation to their kitchens. Many questions were answered concerning the arrangement and equipment to make for the most convenient arrangement. For instance, at a very nominal cost and the rearranging of furniture already in one Greene County kitchen, it was found that the owner might save thirteen miles of walking each year, in the daily task of dish washing. In addition to answering questions for management, Miss Beall also advised kitchen owners about the colors of their room.

In summarizing of these two kinds of interest in the county a Living Room and Kitchen Tour is being organized, says Ruth Radford, Home Demonstration Agent. Every woman in Greene County is invited to attend a part or all of this tour. Some features of the day will be to show some of the advantages derived from the service rendered in these two projects. The date of June 15 is set and the program will be published later.

YOUTH ARRESTED AS
AUTO IS RECOVERED

Robert S. Wood, 21, arrested by police at 9:25 a. m. Friday, was charged with the theft of a Chevrolet sedan at Jamestown Thursday night.

The arrest was made shortly before a report of the theft of the auto was received at police headquarters, suspicion having been aroused when the youth allegedly made several futile attempts to sell the machine in Xenia.

fore a report of the theft of the auto was received at police headquarters, suspicion having been aroused when the youth allegedly made several futile attempts to sell the machine in Xenia.

The sedan belonged to Nathan Sessler, residing near Jamestown. Wood, according to police, is a relative of Sessler and makes his home with the Sesslers.
